FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Through the combined guidance of our Board of Trustees, the dedicated work of our staff, and the incredible generosity of our donors, the Walters Art Museum continues to engage the public through exciting exhibitions and programs and showcase our collections of seven millennia of art that we steward “for the benefit of the public.”

Illuminating the objects in our care and creating connections to today’s audiences pervade all that we do at the Walters. From art acquisitions to festivals that draw visitors from across the region, our aim is to reflect an understanding that this historic collection belongs to the city of Baltimore and each of us.

Throughout our galleries, we strive to spark curiosity about how art can impact our world and reveal previously untold stories. In 2018–19, we highlighted the diversity of objects and cultures reflected in our collections through exhibitions such as Japanese Woodblock Prints: The Art of Collaboration; The Return of the Buddha; Woven Words: Decoding the Silk Book; and Transformation: Art of the Americas.

Our spectacular Lunar New Year Celebration drew a record crowd that delighted in art making and performances. We continued our commitment to the Baltimore arts community by working with more than 300 local artists, including for our acclaimed Art/Sound/Now series, which celebrated its fifth anniversary. And our school programs provided meaningful connections with art to thousands of children from Baltimore City and Baltimore County, as well as districts throughout Maryland.

I encourage you to explore your Walters, and, most of all, to connect with each other and be inspired by great works of art right here in Baltimore!

Exhibitions & Installations

Arts of Asia

October 1, 2017–Ongoing

This inviting display of one of the most exceptional collections of East and Southeast Asian art in North America offers a rich exploration of artistic traditions from diverse cultures and regions across India, Nepal, Tibet, China, Korea, Japan, Myanmar, Thailand, and Cambodia. The stunning array of 150 works spanning 2,000 years includes more than 30 objects that have never been on view.

The galleries are divided into two sections: Buddhist Art of East and Southeast Asia, and Art of India, Nepal, and Tibet: The John and Berthe Ford Gallery. Many of the sculptures and paintings that comprise the Buddhist Art display came to the Walters as gifts from the Doris Duke Charitable Foundation's Southeast Asian Art Collection, and 11 works are on view for the first time following extensive conservation by the Walters. Also on display is a collection of Thai sculptures of the Buddha, drawn from a gift to the Walters from Alexander Brown Griswold (1907–1991), a native Baltimorean who was stationed in Thailand during World War II.

Works of art from India, Nepal, and Tibet are featured in the gallery named for John and Berthe Ford, who acquired and donated most of the objects on view. A new display includes South Asian Buddhist, Hindu and Jain religious works; Himalayan bronzes, scroll paintings (thangkas), and ritual objects; and Indian Islamic court arts. This display contains new additions of Islamic art from South Asia that illustrate the religious diversity of historic India through the integration of art from Islamic courts.

Japanese Woodblock Prints: The Art of Collaboration

September 30, 2018–January 6, 2019

For much of the 17th through the 19th century, Tokyo was the largest city in the world, bustling with tea houses, restaurants, theaters, and red-light districts. Pasted onto walls of buildings and shops along its streets, finely crafted images on paper of actors, warriors, women, and landscapes captured this culture. Known as ukiyo-e, or “pictures of the floating world,” these woodblock prints made art accessible to a rising middle class, and they continue to inspire and influence artists today.

Mass-produced woodblock prints were used as souvenirs or advertisements. Publishers decided what themes and formats would resonate with audiences, much like present-day publishers or movie producers, then hired the artists, carvers, and printers who designed and created the prints.

Japanese Woodblock Prints: The Art of Collaboration showcased more than 40 of these extraordinary and beloved prints. It was one of a trio of exhibitions that opened September 30, 2018, and focused on works from the Walters Art Museum's collection of East Asian art.

Japanese Woodblock Prints was made possible by the generous support of members and contributors to the annual fund. Major support was provided by the Women's Committee of the Walters Art Museum.

The Return of the Buddha

September 30, 2018–January 6, 2019

Adjacent to Japanese Woodblock Prints in the first-floor temporary exhibition gallery, visitors experienced a one-object installation focused on the Walters' renowned 6th-century lacquer Buddha. The life-size sculpture has awed audiences with its magnificence and remarkable history for centuries. It is the earliest surviving example of its kind. In the fall of 2018, the Buddha returned to the Walters from an exhibition at the Freer Gallery of Art and Arthur M. Sackler gallery in Washington, DC. An opportune installation, the Walters' Conservation Department, communicated fascinating information about the Buddha's construction, emphasized the sophisticated artistry involved in its creation, and revealed the secrets of its origins.

The Return of the Buddha was made possible by the generous support of members and contributors to the annual fund. Major support was provided by the Women's Committee of the Walters Art Museum.

Chinese Snuff Bottles

September 30–December 9, 2019

Nearly 250 Chinese snuff bottles from the Qing dynasty (1644–1911) were on view at the Walters during fall 2019. Visitors marveled at these small wonders, delicately crafted from stone, glass, porcelain, ivory, lacquer, enamel, and precious metals. Among the most breathtaking examples were "inside-painted" snuff bottles, with calligraphy or landscapes painted by inserting a tiny brush in the bottle.

This installation was organized in conjunction with the 50th Annual Convention of the International Chinese Snuff Bottle Society held in Baltimore. The works on view were selected from regional private collections as well as from the museum's holdings.

Chinese Snuff Bottles was made possible by the generous support of members and contributors to the annual fund. In addition, Chinese Snuff Bottles was generously supported by the International Chinese Snuff Bottle Society.

Transformation: Art of the Americas

October 27, 2018–October 6, 2019

For thousands of years, the indigenous cultures of the Americas shared beliefs that states of being—human, animal, and divine—were fluid and interchangeable. These cultures illustrated the metamorphosis of body and spirit in their art. This 22-object exhibition spanned 3,000 years and represented cultures in Panama, Guatemala, and Ecuador. Many objects were part of John G. Bourne's generous gift of art to the Walters.

A transformative state was achieved by altering the physical form of the body to resemble gods and other supernatural beings. People pierced, tweezed, and adorned their heads and other body parts; they even bound the heads of infants to reshape their skulls. They also adorned their bodies with elaborate jewelry, such as the Colombian gold nose ring, and masterfully crafted Peruvian gold-and-turquoise ear flares featured in the exhibition. Jewelry in gold and polished materials reflected the belief that the faces of gods shone like the sun. Objects helped persons who sought to transcend the physical world and pass into the spiritual realm through bloodletting, ritual drinking, and ingesting hallucinogens. People costumed themselves as animals believed to have direct connections to the spiritual world.

In addition to experiencing the objects themselves, visitors engaged in free programs in the space, including Spanish-language tours on the first Saturday of every month.

This exhibition was generously supported by the Walters Art Museum members and contributors to the annual fund. Major support was provided by PNC Foundation.

Woven Words: Decoding the Silk Book

February 6–April 28, 2019

Within the Walters Art Museum's collection of rare books and manuscripts, a 19th-century prayer book woven entirely from silk displays a connection between the Jacquard loom on which it was made and the computers that shape our modern world.

Technically neither a printed book nor a manuscript, the Silk Book defied typical classification. Its creation took nearly two years and 50 attempts. Beyond the aesthetics of its imagery and the elegance of its prayers, the Silk Book is an important example of the often unseen link between the worlds of art and science.

The Silk Book was a marvel of the 1889 Paris World's Fair and considered a technological wonder. It was awarded a Grand Prize, no small accomplishment considering that the main attraction was the Eiffel Tower. Fifty copies of the book were produced, two of which were bought by Henry Walters, one for himself and one for his sister, Jennie Walters Delano. He personalized the copies with painted monograms and bindings. Henry's copy was sold after his death, while Jennie's Silk Book was gifted to the Walters by her granddaughter.

Visitors engaged with the Silk Book through tablets in the gallery that displayed the fully digitized book and a video that demonstrated how the Jacquard loom worked.

Paintings for a Venetian Palace

April 6, 2019–Ongoing

Paintings for a Venetian Palace tells the story of the romance between the Spartan queen Helen and Paris, a prince of Troy, and showcases a trio of 15th-century Italian paintings by artist Dario di Giovanni. A team of three Walters conservators and a curator worked together to bring the paintings to life in this installation, suggestive of how Venetians in the Renaissance might have encountered them.

In the spring of 2019, The Journal of the Walters Art Museum became a media-rich, fully searchable digital publication, accessible to all through the Walters' website. Volume 74 featured a group of articles that revealed discoveries made during nearly a decade of technical and art historical research on these paintings.

Conservation of the painting series was funded in part by the American Council on Italian Matters of Maryland, while the Cini Foundation, Venice, contributed support for the art-historical research. This installation was generously supported by Walters Art Museum members and contributors to the annual fund. Major support has been provided by The Gladys Kriebel Delmas Foundation.

Journal of the Walters Art Museum was made possible in part by a grant from the Samuel H. Kress Foundation.

Animal Tales

May 18–August 11, 2019

Images of animals frequently appeared in the margins of medieval books and manuscripts. While these animals often decorated or illustrated the text, other times images such as roaring lions, mischievous hedgehogs, and mystical unicorns were vehicles for understanding the world and human behavior.

This exhibition presented the different ways that animals conveyed hidden stories and morals to the reader between the 13th and 17th centuries, and focused on how seemingly innocuous pictures functioned as carriers of shared cultural knowledge. While the depictions in the 12 manuscripts featured in Animal Tales originated in the past, their link to the present is clear.

Janet & Walter Sondheim Artscape Prize Finalists Exhibition

June 15–August, 11 2019

The Walters Art Museum, in collaboration with the Baltimore Office of Promotion & The Arts, proudly presented the 14th annual Janet & Walter Sondheim Artscape Prize Finalists Exhibition. This prestigious competition awards a $25,000 fellowship to assist in furthering the career of a visual artist or visual artist collaborators living and working in the Greater Baltimore region.

An award ceremony and reception for the exhibition's seven finalists took place Saturday, July 13, at the Walters. Jurors for the 2019 competition were acclaimed artist Laylah Ali, internationally recognized curator Regine Basha, and artist and critic William Powhida.

The 14th annual Janet & Walter Sondheim Artscape Prize was held in conjunction with the 38th annual Artscape and produced by the Baltimore Office of Promotion & The Arts in partnership with the Walters Art Museum. The 2019 competition was made possible through the generous annual support of presenting sponsor M&T Bank. Additional funds came from an endowment established with the support of the Abell Foundation, Baltimore Community Foundation, Amy and Chuck Newhall, Brown Advisory, Caplan Family Foundation, Charlesmead Foundation, Ellen Sondheim Dankert, France-Merrick Foundation, Greater Baltimore Committee, Hecht-Levi Foundation, Legg Mason, Rollins-Luetkemeyer Foundation, Henry & Ruth Blaustein Rosenberg Foundation, Rosemore Inc., Rouse Company Foundation, Sigmund & Barbara Shapiro Philanthropic Fund, John Sondheim, William G. Baker, Jr. Memorial Fund, and Whiting-Turner Contracting Company. BOPA additionally thanked the more than 40 individuals who contributed to the Sondheim Prize Endowment Fund in 2017 in honor of former BOPA CEO Bill Gilmore.
